NEW TAX LEVIES TO COME BEFORE THE LEGISLATURE

Methods for Raising $6,000,000 Discussed by Revenue Committee

INDUSTRIAL TAX PROPOSED

Methods for raising about $6,000,000 additional revenue for the state were considered at Harrisburg Tuesday by the Joint Legislative Revenue Committee, which held its first meeting. The commission of which Senator W. C. Sprull is chairman, is the first joint legislative committee created in many years. Recommendations in the way of new tax measures are expected to be made to the legislature within a few weeks.

Attorney General Brown and Auditor General-Elect Snyder met with the committee. Alleged encroachment by the federal government on the state's proper field of taxation received considerable attention. Additional revenue is needed to meet the demand for highway construction and increased school appropriations.

Among the suggestions said to have been made was one for a general horizontal increase of one mill upon all present sources of taxation, but it is believed this would work an injustice in some respects and it is likely to be modified.

A suggestion also has been made that a tax of 1 mill be levied on all real estate and corporate properties. Members of the committee generally are opposed to the real estate features, as the state has had no direct tax upon realty in many years.

A tax of 1 mill on the capital stock of manufacturing companies which now escape taxation has been suggested. This would yield more than $2,000,000 annually. The suggestion also has been advanced to increase minimum automobile license fees from $5 to $10. About $500,000 would be yielded for highway maintenance.

Another source of income may be procured by increasing the bonus on Pennsylvania charters from one-third of 1 per cent to one-half of 1 per cent on the authorized capital stock. This would yield about $300,000 annually. Corporate loans and gross receipts are likely to have some additions made to the tax rate existing at present.

The committee is also considering a bill to tax coal, gasoline, oil and quarry products. Mr. Brown said the proposed tax of 2 1/2 per cent on coal would be constitutional. This bill is now in the ways and means committee. The Attorney General will gather information from West Virginia and other states where natural resources are taxed and make a report to the committee.

The Coyle Theatre management suggests, all who can, arrange to attend the afternoon performance of "War Brides."

DONORA MAN ON WAY TO CHARLEROI HAS WRECK

Runaway Horse Spills Vincent Ozak On Sidewalk and Tears Down Part Of Hotel Porch

Shortly past noon Tuesday a horse drawing a wagon driven by Vincent Ozak, who was on his way from his home at 432 Third street Donora to get a load of feed in Charleroi, became frightened and dashed up Schoonmaker avenue, Monessen. At Eighth street the wagon knocked down one of the iron posts supporting the veranda on the Dewey hotel and threw the driver across the sidewalk and against the house. He was badly bruised but managed later to gather together his wrecked wagon and take it to a blacksmith shop for repairs.

The horse continued his career and struck Joe Albert's automobile, inflicting a little damage, then dashed upon a crowded sidewalk, clearing it of its frightened pedestrians, and was caught thoroughly exhausted a block or two further on.

BOY BURGLARS CAUGHT AT WORK

One Lad, Aged Nine Years, Taken to Lockup—Police Hunt Others

ARE DISCOVERED IN STORE

When three boys attempted to burglarize the store of John Gemmel near the creek bridge in the First ward, Monongahela at an early hour Tuesday morning, one of them, at least, came to grief, while the other two are still fugitives, though their arrest is expected at any time.

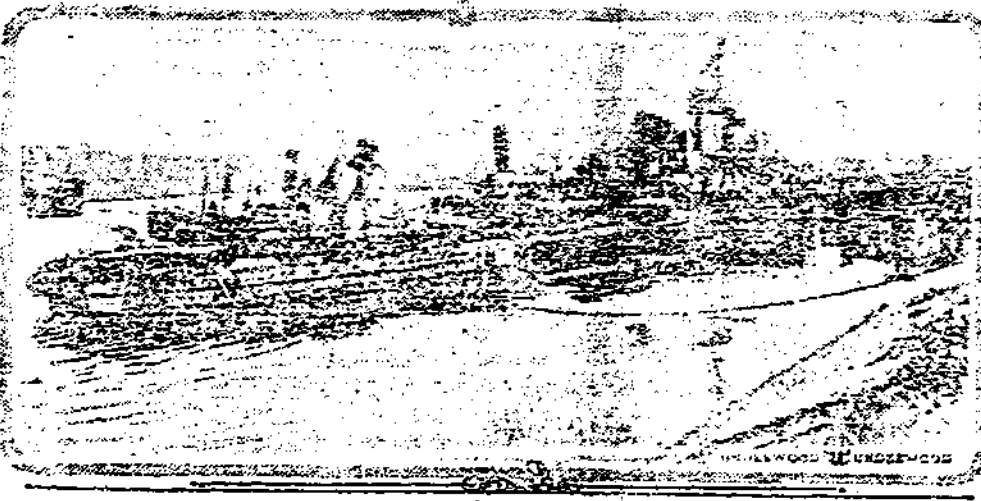

Mr. Gemmel conducts a small confectionary store in the Gregg property near Bridge street. When he was going to work at two o'clock he saw a light in his store. Upon investigation he found three boys therein. Without disturbing them he telephoned to Night Officer Thornley and when the officer arrived they advanced on the store, but two of the boys succeeded in making their escape. The one arrested was John Senna, aged nine years. He was taken to the police station and is being held until the other two can be captured.

It also developed Tuesday that burglars robbed the hen house of Mrs. C. A. Betting in Main street, Monongahela Monday night as well as broke into the warehouse of James B. Hayward and Son in Railroad street.

At the former place they secured about eight valuable laying hens, while at the Hayward warehouse flour and other grain was taken. Entrance was gained by forcing a transome over the hay door and unlatching the sliding door.

The latter two crimes are not charged against these boys, as it not thought they could have committed them. The officers are working on several clues to this burglary.

After Battle--Battered and Beaten

The recent sea battle between German and British light sea forces marked one of the most thrilling engagements of the European war. The toll of the battle has never been officially recorded. The German destroyer V-69 which was in the midst of the hottest fighting was partially wrecked by shell fire from British cruisers. She is shown in the accompanying picture dismantled, her decks covered with debris in the harbor of Ymuiden, Holland, where she sought refuge.

FORTUNES BEING MADE BY FAYETTE COAL MEN

Fuel Finds Ready Sale at $4 and $5 Per Ton—Any Quantity. Finds Ready Sale

Never could it be more truly said than now that "Coal is King." Fortunes are being amassed by men in position to take advantage of the unprecedented prices, a Connellsville story states. Coke holds second place. Steam coal commands $4 to $5 a ton. Almost any quantity finds ready sale. Coke is quoted at $12 a ton. The drawback to production is the limited car supply. By-product coal sold during last week at $6.15 a ton or a profit of close to $5 a ton.

Coal that in normal times would have no sale at all and because of its scarcity is being sold at $10 a ton, is now being removed from abandoned mines and is selling at fancy prices.

MARCH 25 LAST DAY FOR DOGS IN COUNTY WITHOUT LICENSES

After That Time Their Lives Will Be In Danger Unless They Have 1917 Tag

March 25 is the last day upon which canine pets may enjoy life gay and carefree in Washington county, sans a 1917 dog license. The county commissioners so decreed Tuesday when they issued warnings to owners of toy poodles, the noble Great Danes et al, that new tags must be purchased. At the same time instructions were given to all the constables in the county and to the state police to kill all dogs found running at large without license on and after March 26, in accordance with the state law. Tagless dogs will no doubt give Lent strict observance.

CHANNEL OPEN; BOATS RUNNING ON MONONGAHELA

Ice Gradually Being Broken Up And Navigation Being Resumed

VESTA BOATS OPERATING

Though the river channel is open and has been open since Sunday, navigation has not yet been opened up in earnest. The Jones & Laughlin company, otherwise the Vesta Coal company, have their regular boats running now, but few of the Pittsburgh Coal company's towboats have gone either up or down stream.

The channel was opened for navigation Sunday and since there has been somewhat of a betterment in the trade. There is considerable floating ice in the river, but it is not dangerous, being rotted by the warm weather. The river was blocked almost completely from February 9 to February 18; the longest period it has been closed since 1910.

CRIMINAL CASE POSTPONED UNTIL MAY TERM OF COURT COKEBURG MAN ACQUITTED

One case was all that was for trial in criminal court today. The case of Mike Kovitsmith, charged with the murder of Mike Smith, was postponed until the May term of court. The jury heard testimony Tuesday. The case was set for the day, but one of these was continued and in the other two pleas were entered. The homicide case, in which Pete Molesty and Mike Smith were indicted for the murder of Mike Kovitsmith, at Richhill, on August 16, 1916, was continued to the May term, on account of the illness of material witnesses.

Martin Mox, of Cokeburg, was found not guilty of larceny. He was alleged to have taken a motor cycle and side car belonging to Joe Bakun, at Cokeburg. The machine was never recovered. It was kept in a small shack, near Mox's home at Cokeburg, this shack being rented by Mox. Bakun and another man kept their cycles there. Mox, it was alleged, left his wife with the intention of joining the army and in going away, took the cycle. He was arrested later at Cleveland, O. He gave bail and the Commonwealth alleged that Mox after he was gone, wrote a letter to his wife, saying he was leaving her telling her he had taken the cycle, and also that it had been left in Pittsburgh. The defense denied that Mox ever wrote such a letter to his wife. They averred Mox went to Charleroi to work. He testified that after he had gone there he wrote his wife and arranged for her to go there and that she did go arriving there on the same train on which the officer arrived. The defendant denied absolutely that he took the cycle.

COLDS.

Since the horse has been stolen it is time to lock the stable. Since most of us are afflicted with colds it is time to talk about a cure.

Colds are usually caused by some sort of indiscretion and this is the favorite time of all the year for them. In the summer we know we cannot bear any excess clothing and we are perfectly sure about our own bodily needs in the way of covering. In the approaching cold weather of fall such are the nature of the gradations that our bodies keep in line and by the timely adoption of slightly heavier wearing apparel we are generally able to avoid serious colds. That is with seasonable fall weather and common sense, we are able to circumvent trouble. In winter time it is the same. But as soon as spring comes we are inclined to excesses that run us surely into early stages of grip. We expose ourselves needlessly, open doors or windows wide when we shouldn't, get in draughts, wear lighter clothing, or do any one of a dozen of things. Then we suffer.

It is harder to get rid of a cold than it is to acquire one, as all of us know to our sorrow. A cold must run its course. We can treat ourselves with various brands of medicine, but the cold goes on till it gets ready to quit. The important thing is to keep ourselves in as good condition physically as possible while we are suffering, to keep our system open and to dress the same always. Overheated rooms will encourage colds, so equitable heating is necessary. Draughts must be avoided as the evil one. Simple precautions only are necessary and if we take those our colds will not last long. If precautions are not taken, look out for bronchitis, pneumonia, and other such dangerous diseases.

BLAME PLACED.

Whether gallantry is waning or whether it is undesirable to our twentieth century is a question that someone else will have to answer. It doesn't matter about that particularly. What does matter is that girls are permitted to roam the streets after nightfall, entirely unprotected. The Monessen News speaks forcibly of the subject in a way that applies here, saying:

Attention is desired of those parents who allow their daughters to run about the streets of Monessen after night fall. Within the past three months eleven girls under sixteen have been criminally treated, kidnapped or assaulted in Monessen and towns within a short radius, not to mention the large number above that age, who have suffered the same treatment. Early in this week a man was arrested for following a 15-year-old school girl on the streets between 7 and 8 o'clock. The evidence was such that only a simple charge of disorderly conduct could be made against him.

Newspapers do not publish accounts of these horrible occurrences solely because they are news. The strongest reason is to warn others to avoid becoming victims of fiendish attacks. Parents know these things and in most cases, every girl, young or grown, is fully cognizant of them, yet not a night passes that girls in smart dresses may not be seen escorted by relatives and running about the city until long after midnight. Some are of course practicing vice, but many are just taking advantage of the reckless liberty allowed by foolish, ignorant parents.

A moral leper considers that all girls out after dark, without a companion or escort, are fair prey if he can win them. It is the view taken the world over. With our mixed population, Monessen is not a safe place for unescorted girls at night and if the lightning strikes in your home, you and you only are to blame.

WHAT OTHERS THINK

MAGISTERIAL HUMOR.

A Pittsburg police magistrate made a pitiful bid for applause this week when after a hearing he sentenced a man to join the United States army or go to jail. In these days when patriotism is uppermost in the mind of the American citizen this piece of crude ignorance is especially glaring. It would be unfair to accept it other than as a reflection upon this individual magistrate who we do not hesitate to say is unfit for the office he holds and unworthy of becoming one of the legion he facetiously bids a convicted wrongdoer join.

Any official elevated to an office created to secure proper enforcement of the law who does not know the difference between the United States army and a penal institution should be removed from that office and locked up in the asylums together with the rest of the mentally soft. Far from being proper punishment for not doing joining the United States army is a privilege, a duty and an honor that any true American worthy of the name would proudly appreciate.

The American public has fully come to understand the sacrifice, the glory and the honor due her soldiers. The time when American armies were a band of outcasts, bandits and fugitives never existed and now, more than at any other time in the history of the country, our land forces are composed of red-blooded, virile patriots, probably in some instances minus the polish, but with every prerequisite that goes to make a man, a citizen and a warrior for home, country and right.

This poor little punheaded Pittsburg magistrate having never felt and being unable to feel the spirit of patriotic service thus makes of the citizen's most sacred sacrifice a jest that repels. There is no doubt that the prisoner who faced him during the memorable hearing referred to was his superior in every way and better fitted to hold the office he disgraces than is this doughty boor himself.—Donora American.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

The late Judge Pennypacker was an advocate of the enfranchisement of women, but he also advocated justice in the relationship between the sexes for man.

"Woman," he said one day at the Pennsylvania Historical Society, "mustn't play it both ways. She mustn't get the vote and the equal wage through man's sense of equity and then get all kinds of unfair privileges through his sense of gallantry."

"There's a lot of truth in the story of the young broker, who after his failure, was thrown over by a girl."

"Why," he answered, "after I'd given her a string of pearls, an opera box and a birthday gift of a twelve-cylinder limousine, I went to smash and her people accused me of amusing myself at her expense."

A bright girl in a large school applied to her teacher for leave to be absent half a day on the plea that her mother had received a telegram which stated that company was on the way.

"It's my father's half-sister and her three boys," said the pupil anxiously, "and mother doesn't see how she can do without me, because those boys always act so dreadfully."

The teacher referred to her printed list of reasons which justified absence and asked if her case came under any of them.

"I think it might come under this head, Miss Rules," said the girl, pointing as she spoke to the words "Domestic Afflictions."

"After taking ten bottles I am now well and strong, have no more pain, backache or dizzy spells. Everyone tells me how well I look and I tell them Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did it."—Miss NINA SOUTHWICK, R. F. D. No. 4, Box 33, Kingfisher, Okla.

Very free verse is certainly taking hold. Much might be said in this connection of its form, its content and whether proficiency in it is innate or acquired. One little boy said he never had made up verses. "Just a little verse," said the teacher. "Well," said the boy, dreamily: "Sometimes the sky at night looks like a spotted egg."

Why the Head of a Lion.

A custom there is in most parts of Europe to adorn aqueducts, spouts and cisterns with lions' heads, which though no illandable ornament, is of an Egyptian genealogy, who practiced the same under a symbolical illusion. For because the sun being in Leo, the flood of Nilus was at the full and water became conveyed into every part. They made the spouts of their aqueducts through the head of a lion.—Sir Thomas Browne, "Vulgar Errors."

UNSHAKEN TESTIMONY

Time is the test of truth. And Doan's Kidney Pills have stood the test in Charleroi. No Charleroi resident who suffers backache or annoying urinary ills can remain unconvinced by this twice-told testimony.

Mrs. Robert Coulter, 520 Third St. Charleroi, says: "One of the family had the measles when five years old which left weak kidneys. The trouble was most distressing at night and there seemed to be an inability to control the kidney secretions. I had often heard Doan's Kidney Pills recommended and I was induced to get a supply at Piper Bros. Drug Store. The one who used this medicine was soon benefitted and I have hopes of a permanent cure."

During President Lincoln's first visit to the Springfield penitentiary an old inmate looking out through the bars remarked:

"Well, Mr. Lincoln, you and I ought to be well posted on prisons. We've seen all there are in the country."

"Why, this is the first I ever visited," replied the chief executive, somewhat astonished.

"Yes," was the reply, "but I've been in all the rest."

White Eskimos.

Vilhjalmur Stefansson is having a difficult time with his "blond Eskimos" and by this time doubtless wishes that they were more brunette and ordinary. They hold up his men and rob them of everything removable, and utterly decline to consider the explorers a superior race. Yet when they are visited by an epidemic of influenza they attribute their misfortunes to the witchcraft of the strangers.

Hitherto newly discovered peoples have been greatly impressed by the white skins of the discoverers. The civilized races of Peru and Mexico respected the complexion of the Spaniards as much as they feared their firearms. A pallid physiognomy is one of the greatest assets of the white man who penetrates to regions where white skins are unknown.

Dr. Wiley, Food Expert, Tells of Value of Whole Wheat Diet

Some Economic and Domestic Problems That Await Solution of Science.

From time to time the United States is confronted with internal economic problems; the solution of which rests solely with Americans. Dr. Harvey Wiley, long conspicuous in the public eye and erstwhile head of the Bureau of Chemistry of the Department of Agriculture, has been one of the few men of the country who has tackled these problems—and solved them.

For years pronouncements of his authorship have been considered the last word on food values and food costs. His most recent utterances on the value of whole wheat as a stable, wholesome and low cost food opens new avenues of thought to scientists struggling with domestic living problems.

Dr. Wiley while in the service of the United States did more constructive investigating than perhaps any other man of his day. He disclosed the secrets of the relative values of various foods to a public that had long lived in blissful ignorance; he told us how to eat to be strong and what to eat to make the living cost commensurate with our earning capacity. The fruits of Dr. Wiley's investigation will be shared by future generations so long as economic living remains a human problem.

A Matter of Definition.

"What does citizen mean?" Eddie asked his sister.

"It means a man that lives in a city," answered the little girl.

"Then what do you call the people that live outside the city?" asked the boy.

"Oh, they are countrymen! Don't you remember that piece about fellow countrymen?"—Philadelphia Ledger.

COUNTING HEADS.

The First Census Was Taken by Moses in the Wilderness.

There is a record of a census in China as far back as the year 2042 B. C. and of one in Japan in the last century before Christ. Under the constitution of Solon the citizens of Athens were divided and registered in four classes, according to the amount of their taxable property or income. The Roman census was burdened with more statistics than any of these, however. It had its origin under Servius Tullius, sixth king of Rome, and was an affair of much solemnity. Every citizen had to appear upon the Campus Martius and declare upon oath his name and dwelling and the value of his property under the penalty of having his goods confiscated.

The most ancient statistical record of a census is found in the Bible. The census was taken by Moses in the wilderness, and, as shown by the first chapter of Numbers, the enumeration must have been very simple. "Take ye," said this account, "the sum of all the congregations of the children of Israel, after their families; by the house of their fathers, with the number of their names, every male by their polls: from twenty years old and upward, all that are able to go forth to war in Israel; thou and Aaron shall number them by their armies." This census was an affair that must have been soon over, lasting no longer than a day, being merely a counting of the heads of the fighting men. The women and children and cripples and the old men were not included; "neither were the Levites numbered among them." Those who did stand up to be numbered totaled 603,550.

FIFTH AVENUE THE JOYOUS.

Sparkle and Vivacity of New York's Famous Thoroughfare.

Perhaps the chief impression which the metropolis makes is of the vivacity of its life. It is the completest expression of our national joie de vivre. And it is pleasant to record that for the most characteristic moment of this quality you would not cite Broadway at night, but Fifth avenue by day. The sparkle of this famous street is perhaps largely due to the New York climate.

Climates are never perfect, but among the world's great cities the American metropolis is singularly fortunate. It is flooded with sunlight, and on its best days the air has a crisp and tonic quality. By a tacit understanding ill dressed and sad people keep off Fifth avenue. On a bright morning there is no resisting the street's gay intoxication. The most expensive shops in the world are close at hand, the best restaurants near by. Brave men lounge at the windows of exclusive clubs, and fair women cut coupons at fashionable banks. Life seems indeed worth living. The whole town is gay. Even children and nursemaids in the park seem more engagingly clean and innocent and spirited than elsewhere, as if they, too, felt the call of happiness.

It is worth while noting the clearness of much of New York's air, doing justice to the clean and simple brightness of much of its enjoyment, because its prominence as one of the world's chief centers of dissipation and pleasure seeking has done its reputation bad service with many people of virtue and good taste.—Harper's Magazine.

Africa's Gold Coast.

The Gold Coast is a British colony on the west coast of Africa. Its climate is notoriously unhealthy, the heat and moisture being excessive. The coast is lined with unhealthy swamps and shallow lakes, while the peculiar rock of the country is said to give off, under the influence of the air and moisture, large quantities of hydrogen gas. The native towns are crowded and dirty, intermittent fevers and other diseases being always present. These are peculiarly fatal to Europeans, though the natives do not suffer so much. The whole region is more or less a gold-producing country, but at present the value of the territory is chiefly due to the profusion of vegetable products supplied by the rich soil.

Shrub Perfume.

The perfume of commerce known as "cassie," manufactured for the most part in France, is found in abundance in the Philippine islands in the Ancasia farnesiana, a shrub which grows on hundreds of acres of land near Manila and throughout the dry parts of the entire islands. This shrub has small spiny leaves and produces a short black pod. The flower from which the essence is obtained is golden yellow.

No Help Needed.

Johnny (a small brother)—Mother, quick. Send for the doctor! Mother (anxiously)—Why—why—what's the matter? Who is ill? Johnny—Mr. Algernon is going to die—he said he would if sister would not marry him, and sister says she won't.—London Telegraph.

Quick Change.

"Here, you! What do you mean by telling that red nosed old bachelor friend of yours that marriage is all a lottery?"

"I was just about to assure him, m'dear, that I won a prize."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Surprises in War.

In warfare the elements of "surprise" counts for a very great deal.

Troy would not have been captured by the Greeks had it not been for the surprise sprung upon the Trojans by the gigantic wooden horse in which Greek soldiers concealed themselves, stealing out in the nighttime to open the gates of the city to the Greek army.

Perrus would never have gained his victory over the Romans had he not brought his elephants into the field. These gigantic creatures as they plowed their way through the Roman ranks struck terror into the hearts of the soldiers who had never before engaged in a battle in which elephants took part.

Hannibal, the great Carthaginian general, would never have captured one of the chief Alpine passes had he not hit on the happy idea of fastening torches to the horns of 2,000 oxen, lighting the torches when it got dark and driving the beasts toward the Roman camp. Seeing the moving lights, the company guarding the pass thought their comrades were in danger and hastened to their rescue, thus leaving the way clear for Hannibal and his men to get through.—Pearson's.

J. W. BERRYMAN & SON
CHARLEROI'S LIVE STORE

Advertising at Home

Is really the most important factor to a business man or corporation. Just as the readers are eager to see what is happening in the warring countries of Europe are the housewives and mothers of Charleroi eager to see what is happening in the stores and business houses in the way of bargains. They see by out-of-town papers where someone is offering the very same bargains as you. Not knowing this they begin to drift away from home to do their shopping. That trade is lost and lost trade is hard to regain. Why should you lose this just because an outsider does more advertising than you. An ad inserted in The MAIL twice or three times a week will work wonders.

STAR FORWARD OUT OF GAME AT HIGH SCHOOL; COMBINATION SPOILED

The school high school Coach Lloyd Wagner is endeavoring to build up a basketball machine to meet the Washington high school five without the services of Captain Louis Fiedler, one of the best forwards in the country intercollegiate league. He is building the machine around Stahlman, acting captain, but has not yet decided the probable lineup.
Players from which the team will have to be selected are: Stahlman, Fiedler, Parent, March, Lawstuter, Monck and Glatt. One of the forward positions on all probability will be taken care of by Parent and either Stahlman or Eagre sent to the other. Fiedler will jump center and the guards will be cared for as seems best. Capt. Fiedler has been in bed a number of days, having had to pass through an operation for a bealed foot.

CONSTABLES AFFECTED BY BILL LEGISLATURE WILL CONSIDER SOON

Some constables are going to make some money and some are going to lose it, if a bill which has been referred to the judiciary committee of the legislature of Pennsylvania receives the approval of the members of the house within the next couple of weeks.
The bill provides that in the future, no constable shall make a report to the judge of the quarter sessions court. On the first day of the term, unless to his knowledge there has been some violation of the laws of the state in his district. At the present time all constables of the city, wards and townships put in their appearance on the first day of each term of quarter sessions, with a lengthy report, known as the constable's return. The clerk of courts of the county has to keep a file of all the returns and if there is any flagrant violation noted in the returns of the constables, the matter is turned over to the grand jury or the district attorney.
Under the new proceeding the constable who has not rustled around and found some violation of the law in his district or who has kept the peace in a perfect manner, will not be allowed to make a report to the quarter sessions court and consequently will be cut out of his fees. At the same time the bill carries a penalty that the constable who makes a report when there is nothing to report or the constable who does not make a report when there should be a report made, is liable to lose his fees and mileage. The constables returns carry a lot of usually unnecessary questions which the officers must puzzle over and which receive little consideration at the hands of the county court and officials at any time.

INTEREST TAKEN HERE IN MONONGAHELA MINSTREL

Much interest is being taken here in the third annual minstrel of the Ancient and Illustrious Order Knights of the Skull, of Monongahela, which will be presented at the Regent theatre, that place on Monday and Tuesday evening of next week.
This organization, which is unique in itself has a membership of about 125 of the most prominent business and professional men in Monongahela and a number of Charleroi young men are members. Their two former shows were huge successes and this year a new idea has been tried, a professional director. Miller and Draper, professional theatrical promoters have charge of the show this year and their representative Charles A. Gaa is at present rehearsing the talent.
Many Charleroi people are expected to attend the Skulls' show. On the closing evening, a dance will follow the show, which will be for the Skulls and their ladies only.
Paul A. Kimmings, of Charleroi is a member of the press and ticket committees for the show.

TEMPLARS ARRANGING ANNUAL CONCLAVE OF GRAND COMMANDERY

The sixty-fourth annual convlave of the grand commandery, Knights Templar of Pennsylvania, will be held in Pittsburgh on May 21, 22 and 23, and will take thousands of visitors to that city during that week.
The various committees have been appointed and have begun their work under the general direction of the executive committee, comprising the following men: W. Lawrence Kalmeyer, chairman; James H. Lytle, John A. Murphy, John B. Barbour, George A. Neubert, Frank W. Chessrown, John K. Hein, Richard J. Willsen Stewart. The advisory committee is composed of Lee S. Smith, Andrew G. Williams, William J. Diehl and Herman Junker.

The annual parade will be a feature of the convlave and has been set for Tuesday, May 22.
Among the commanderies that have already signified their intention of participating is McKean Commandery No. 80 of Charleroi. Capt. John K. Hein of McKean Commandery has been named chairman of the Red Cross committee for the days of the convlave.

PITT TEAM ROUNDS OUT THE FIRST HALF OF ITS SEASON

The basketball team at the University of Pittsburgh has now rounded out the first half of its season. This week the passers from Lehigh will meet in Pittsburgh and on Saturday night the Pittsburgh floormen journey to State College where Penn State will be played.
Trips through the east gave many of the followers of collegiate sports in that section of the country an opportunity to see such gridiron stars as Hastings, DeHart, McLaren and Carlson perform on the basketball floor. All four of these men are star all around athletes and are almost equally good in all branches. Hastings has won letters in three sports already and seem bound to add another this year in track. DeHart is still farther advanced for he has letters in three branches and since he has been alternating with McLaren at guard on the basketball team it looks as though he would be the first man in the history of the University to annex letters in four different branches.
The games with Lehigh and Penn State are expected to be two of the best games of the season. Last year Lehigh was one of the two teams that succeeded in winning out over the Panthers, altho the Pittsburgh five later defeated them. This game will be staged at Pittsburgh. The meeting with Penn State Saturday night on their floor will be the second contest of the season between the two quintets. Pitt won out over the Center countians earlier in the year by the narrow margin of one point and the State five are determined they will turn the tables.
